At the end of the seminar, the participants are expected to:

- Explain the overall individual engagement audit process: planning, performing, reporting results and monitoring progress.
- Apply the key steps and components of engagement planning, performing the engagement, reporting and monitoring process
- Demonstrate ability to evaluate adequacy of control design and effectiveness of implementation
- Determine the appropriate workpaper to be produced at each stage of the audit process;
- Develop a systematic method to integrate the data to support the audit engagement results.
- Learn how to communicate audit findings clearly and report accurately;

- Develop best audit report structure or format to meet management and Board requirements and improve business performance;
- Write audit findings using the key elements: criteria, condition, cause, consequences, and corrective action;
- Highlight and document opportunities for improvement and other best practices;
- Learn how to deliver effective presentations to audit clients, top management and other stakeholders by clarifying content, preparing effective materials and delivering with an “X-Factor.”

COURSE OUTLINE

A. INTRODUCTION

- Overview of the individual audit engagement cycle
 - Planning the audit engagement
 - Performing or conducting the audit engagement
 - Communicating or reporting results
 - Monitoring progress or follow-up activity
- Principles in developing quality internal audit workpaper
 - Purpose of workpaper
 - Identifying users and their perspectives
 - Workpaper flexibility
 - Qualities of a good workpaper
 - Workpaper techniques
 - Organization
 - Indexing
 - Cross-referencing
 - Heading
 - Sources
 - Use of Tick Marks
 - Evidence of Review
- Use of the Objectives, Risk and Control (ORC) Matrix as the primary working paper

B. PLANNING THE ENGAGEMENT

- Audit engagement overview: “The Big Picture”
- Engagement planning considerations

- Key steps in engagement planning
 - Set up the audit management files
 - Send out audit memorandum or audit engagement letter to the audit client
 - Conduct the initial study
 - Conduct the entrance meeting
 - Understand the process through a preliminary survey. Use common data gathering tools such as flowcharts, interviews, observations, document review, internal control questionnaires, and analytical procedures. Involve the process owner in the data gathering and discussion process.
 - Identify and define process or activity objectives
 - Identify and define process or activity risks
 - Incorporate knowledge of fraud risks
 - Identify, evaluate, and classify the controls. Ensure proper classification of controls such as by:
 - Placement (directive, preventive, detective, corrective, and monitoring controls)
 - Frequency (per transaction, as needed, and periodic controls)
 - Method (manual and automated controls)
 - Incorporate knowledge of IT application controls, IT general controls, and IT security
 - Level (transaction-level, department-level, and entity-level controls)
 - Criticality (key and non-key control)
 - Nature (hard and soft controls)
 - Analyze the control design if it is adequate to respond to the risks to meet the objectives (i.e., assessment of design effectiveness). Provide recommendations as appropriate.
 - Incorporate knowledge of business process mapping, analysis, and improvement
 - Complete the engagement risk assessment to determine the focus areas for testing
 - Refine the audit objectives based on the results of the risk assessment
 - Identify and use adequate criteria. Apply the audit rating system if already established. If not adequate, discuss with management on the use of suitable criteria. Consider expectations of senior management and the Board, LCE or Head of Agency.

- Incorporate knowledge of audit rating system
- Consider probability of significant errors, fraud, and non-compliance when developing the engagement objectives
- Refine the audit scope based on the engagement objectives. Scope should include what is covered such as records, personnel, systems, and physical properties. Scope should also state what is not covered or any scope limitation.
- Develop the engagement procedures or work program including how to:
 - Determine the combination of tools to gather audit evidence
 - Incorporate knowledge of CAATs or data analysis tools
 - Develop sampling plan and methodology, if applicable
 - Incorporate knowledge on attribute sampling and variables sampling
 - Provide evidence of approval by chief audit executive or designee
 - Determine if the work program can be standardized, if applicable
 - Incorporate knowledge on standardized audit work program and test templates
- Identify the engagement resources needed. Ensure they are sufficient and adequate.
- Complete the engagement plan

C. PERFORMING OR CONDUCTING THE ENGAGEMENT

- Performing the engagement considerations
- Key steps in performing the engagement
 - Gather or validate audit evidence
 - Understand the qualities of audit information or evidence (sufficient, useful, relevant, and reliable)
 - Determine if the work program needs to be adjusted based on the evidence gathered. Ensure that any adjustments are approved promptly
 - Analyze the audit evidence or the test results
 - Use the 5 C's
 - Criteria: Review the criteria
 - Condition: Analyze the test results. Compare with the criteria. If condition meets the criteria, acknowledge satisfactory performance, or give a commendation. If condition does not meet criteria, analyze the extent of the audit observation or finding

- Consequence: Determine and quantify the consequence or effect of the deviation from the criteria (e.g., financial, operational, regulatory compliance, reputational, budgetary, physical, health and safety, and environmental consequence). Determine if it is an audit issue or not based on risk impact (i.e., risk tolerance or materiality thresholds).
- Cause: Conduct a root cause analysis and discuss with the process owner.
 - Incorporate knowledge of root cause analysis tools:
 - Qualitative tools such as the Ishikawa fishbone diagram, 5 Whys, etc.,
 - Quantitative tools such as Pareto diagram, check sheets, histogram, statistical control charts, scatter diagram, stratification, etc.
 - Corrective Action or Recommendation: Provide recommendations that address the root cause. Provide cost-benefit analysis as appropriate. Recommendations can be classified as: immediate, short-term, and long-term
- Draw conclusion
 - Provide assessment on the effectiveness of controls to respond to risks to achieve the objectives (i.e., assessment of operating effectiveness)
 - Highlight the top issues (e.g., top three issues)

D. COMMUNICATING OR REPORTING RESULTS

- Finalize the audit findings worksheet and audit issues worksheet.
- Conduct an alignment meeting, if necessary, to confirm audit evidence and answer questions of facts
- Present the results in an exit meeting
- Get management response on the recommendations and action plans. Management response can be:
 - Accept the recommendation. Management will provide the details of the action plan, the agreed timeline for implementation, the person responsible and the resources needed.
 - Modify the recommendation and submit counter proposal. The internal auditor must assess feasibility of the counter-proposal to address the risk.
 - Reject the recommendation. Internal auditor must assess the exposure to the open risk. If the auditor finds the exposure as significant and unacceptable, elevate this issue to higher levels of management. If not resolved, discuss with the Board, LCE or Head of Agency the significant exposure and communicate management's acceptance of the risk
